Proposed zoning changes tabled

BY TRACI BONNEY

In a move that was well-received by those attending, the Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to table two proposed dockside gambling-related zoning ordinance amendments.

The council convened a special meeting Tuesday to address two amendments that would extend the city's zoning authority to the county line in the Bay of St. Louis and would include dockside gambling facilities and activities in a list of permitted uses in commercial zones. The amendments have been a source of much local controversy during the past six weeks since dockside gambling was voted in December 4, 1990, in Hancock County.

At the recommendation of Mayor Edward Favre, the council tabled the two amendments; rejected all current zoning study proposals, since they do not take dockside gambling issues into account; authorized the solicitation of new proposals, with gaming regulations receiving immediate attention; and approved the appointment of seven residents to a citizen advisory committee to continue receiving public input and act as a liaison between the community and the city government.

Perhaps the issues are too far removed or the people more sophisticated than they were on

Perhaps modern communications, bringing the obscenity of war ever closer to our living rooms colors our view. Certainly the massive casualties and lack of victory in Korea and Vietnam are not far from our

Senate update

Gaming commission funding fails

BY TRACI BONNEY

A measure to appropriate funds for a state gaming commission failed by one vote earlier this week in Jackson.

Sen. Vic Frankiewicz was one of those who cast a "no" ballot in the 25-26 vote to transfer $300,000 from the Public Service Commission to a gaming commission. He said he wants the commission to be funded, but voted against the measure because he wants to see "loose ends" in the Gaming Control Act of 1990 tied up before any licensing agency is established.

He added that the $300,000 is about a third of what will be needed to fund the gaming commission.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre reacted to the news by commenting, "The legislature introduced this possibility. The legislature set up the criteria and everyone anyone would need to follow to have dockside gambling. The county followed the procedure to bring it to a vote and made it legal. Now the legislature is changing its mind."

"I just think it's mighty sad that the legislature can't fulfill its obligations."

In other legislative business, Frankiewicz said most of the

Bay-Waveland school board sets trustee election date

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board set Saturday, March 2 for an election to fill one seat in contention as Linda Penrose's first term expires.

The election will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Waveland Elementary School on Kacey Lane off St. Joseph Street. The board designated board attorney Lucien Gex to run the election.

If necessary, a run-off election will be held at the same place Saturday, March 16, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In addition, the board accepted a bid for $8,650 from American Tennis Courts in Metairie, La., for tennis court repairs, then passed a resolution to authorize the issuing of short-term notes up to $17,000 for those repairs.

The board also held an executive session to hear a complaint from a parent concerning a school district personnel member.

In other matters, the board:

—approved the December claim docket and meeting minutes;

—granted a request for the use of the Bay Middle School gym January 25 from 7 to 11 p.m. so that the Hancock County Youth Task Force Committee can hold a youth dance;

—accepted the resignation of teacher Nora Newbill, a teacher hired at the December meeting who declined the position;

—approved Superintendent Robert Magee's recommendation to hire Carol Avery as a teacher at North Bay Elementary School;

—extended Magee's contract to cover the 1992-1993 school year;

—moved the February meeting from February 11, the day before Mardi Gras, to February 18 to allow for the holiday;

—and authorized Magee to file on behalf of the district for federal assistance under Public Law 81-874 for children whose parents work for federal or military organizations.

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

Going out of bounds

I'm not going to talk about he you-know-what in you-know-where this week; I'm sure we've all seen and heard enough of it lately to last two lifetimes. Obviously, that subject isn't aboo. However, did you ever wonder why certain things are aboo?

I found myself telling a friend's son not too long ago that he should never ask the cost of a person's car or house (or the amount of rent he/she is paying) or how much that person makes a paycheck/month/year/whatever.

I know where I got that — from my parents. They probably got it from theirs.

But why? Why is it taboo to ask someone about such things?

I also told this young man in another conversation that he should never ask a woman's age.

Again, I got it from my parents, who most likely got it from theirs (this is beginning to sound contagious!).

Again, why?

Who made up these rules of propriety?

It used to be said that you should never talk sex, religion or politics with people outside your closest circle of family and friends. If you went along with the thinking of "All in the Family" — Archie Bunker, you wouldn't talk about those things within your closest circle of family and friends.

Now, I can agree with the part about not talking about sex with everyone you meet. The way God designed it and explains it in his book, sex is supposed to be reserved for man and wife as an expression of love and a way of uniting both in the body and the soul. I think something that intimate should not be discussed casually.

The "rule" about not talking about politics and religion among casual acquaintances, though, was probably formulated to keep social gatherings "polite" and "civil."

It would be kind of hard for Christians to do what Jesus told them (see Mark 16 if you're scratching your head about that remark) if no one talked about religion.

As for politics, one thing that sets us apart from other nations is our freedom to gripe about the government without being shot when we least expect it, being hauled off to prison or "disappearing" mysteriously.

So, who made up the rules concerning inquiries about age and financial status?

Did some parent, centuries ago, tell those things to an overly inquisitive youngster to halt his questions?

Or was it an oversensitive, old, poor person who just wanted to put that rich youngster in his place?

Who knows? Whatever the reason, and whoever the originator, these rules about what is taboo are now a part of our society — for the time being, anyway.

Still, I am curious — Who decided what is out of bounds?

Zoning

Those named to the committee were Andy Becker, Willie Acker, Roger Crull, Terry Wyly, Paul Vegas, Carroll Gordon and Pat Murphy Sr.

The mayor said that while the city solicits new zoning study proposals and the committee receives input, he wants the city to proceed with plans to compile dockside gambling regulations in a comprehensive manner.

When council chairman Charles Scianna opened the floor to public comment, both Franya Ethridge and Carroll Gordon thanked the council and Favre for their interest in the zoning issue and for their actions at the meeting. Gordon said he thinks the issue has caused division in the community, but he hopes the council's action will help heal the breach.

Ethridge also presented the council with petitions, containing 286 signatures, that ask the council to adopt the zoning extension amendment, at least as an interim measure, but leave the permitted use inclusion amendment until more study can be conducted. She said the petitions were probably "after the fact" due to the council's action, but she went ahead and presented them.

Both Ethridge and Ames Kergosien, who had presented the mayor with a copy of a similar petition before the meeting, stressed that the petitions came from individual residents and not any citizens committee.

Kergosien had given another copy of his petition to the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning earlier.

Favre said during a break in the meeting that it should take about three to four months for new amendments to be proposed, studied, revised and adopted.

The council also discussed a cable television ordinance, a sewer line cave-in at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis, and some additional claims that were omitted from the docket at the January 8 meeting, then went into a workshop session.

During the workshop, the council discussed a proposed tree ordinance for Bay St. Louis. Two points of contention focused on the size of protected trees and whether or not the city can dictate what a single family residence owner does with the trees on his property.

Councilman John Wilkerson objected to the ordinance's provision that a tree with a caliper (the diameter of the trunk 36 inches above the ground) of eight inches or more be protected. He said that size is too small and will hinder developers in constructing dwellings, offices and other buildings.

Scianna said protecting the smaller trees now will ensure their existence in future years.

Thomas Favre objected to the section stating that the ordinance shall apply to trees located on any real property shown on Bay St. Louis' zoning district map. By way of illustrating his objection, he asked if the city, under this ordinance, could prevent him from removing a large tree that threatens his house every time the wind increases during a storm.

Scianna maintained that Favre or any other homeowner who wanted to remove a tree for a valid reason need only apply to the city for permission to remove the tree and explain his reason for doing so.

Sidelight

The election of Port and Harbor Commission officers seems to be a weighty matter.

At Monday's meeting, the commission re-elected its incumbent officers for the 1991 fiscal year.

current action involves the filing of bills. The slightly tightened gunslinger law has not yet left the Senate and may be called up for reconsideration, he added.

A homebuilder licensing law and mail-in voter registration are among the items coming up on the legislative agenda, Frankiewicz said. He commented that most of the circuit clerks on the Coast have voiced opposition to mail-in registration, claiming that system is prone to fraud.

He also said the State Tax Commission is considering plans to issue tax refund checks instead of holding them back because of budget problems.

The panel is expected to improve central distribution of the telephone system in the park.

The commission elected officers for the 1991 year with no changes. The officers are: Ronald Artigues, president; Oliver Frierson, vice-president; Nancy Gex, secretary; and David McDonald, treasurer.

The board approved:

—The general operating docket.

—The railroad operating docket.

—The industrial park revenue docket.

—The general obligation bond of 1989 docket.

—The general obligation

The board adjourned until February 11.

Fervent prayer for peace

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

In reviewing the bound volumes of The Sea Coast Echo, starting especially in 1941, one can see the emphasis placed on the whereabouts and well-being of Hancock County's men and women in uniform.

In today's issue of the Echo we are starting a list of our men and women who are involved in Operation Desert Shield.

We are aware of our National Guard members of the 1355th and several others, yet there are many from the area whose names we do not have.

If you reside in the area and have a member of your family or a friend who is involved in Operation Desert Shield and would like to have his or her name placed along with others, call and tell us name and rank.

Realize there are those who feel our men and women should have not been sent to the Middle East, while others feel that they should have been, but the reality is that they are there.

People of our community in church groups and individually are praying for world peace and praying for our men and women in uniform.

Our military need our prayers and support, as they are the children, grandchildren, spouses, fathers, grandfathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews, cousins, step-members of the above mentioned, friends, distant relatives of many people residing in our area.

We need to remember the leaders of this country, as well as the leaders of other nations in the world, as they too, need our prayers and support now more than ever.

I, like you, want to see peace in the world and to have our military return home safe and sound, so they can once again be with their families and friends.

Because of the times we live in, there will probably always be a need for our military and for them to be away from home. The times though are much more serious when war is so close as it is today.

In a war everyone is a loser.

On Saturday night, the Hancock County Chapter of the NAACP honored community volunteers with a Distinguished Service Awards Program at the Civic Center on Longfellow Road.

Former Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams was honored posthumously with his wife, Mrs. Louise Williams and daughters accepting the Martin Luther King Jr. Award.

I could not think of a better person to have been honored than Chief Williams. It is too bad he wasn't here to have received the prestigious award in person.

Chief Williams joined the Bay Police Department during the administration of Mayor John Scaife and Commissioners J. Cyril Glover and Warren Traub.

Prior to that time he was in the wood business, operating his own paperwood truck, a very physical task he continued part-time for several years while working as Bay patrolman.

As the Bay police chief, Williams earned the respect and admiration of residents of all races, as he treated everyone the same.

The benefits of his work as a patrolman, assistant chief and police chief continue today, as they will for years to come.

The banquet was well attended, and congratulations go to everyone who received an award.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taylor statement ambiguous on continued sanction vote

Dear Editor,

In regard to the story in the Sunday, Jan. 13 Echo, "Taylor Supported Sanctions," I and many in the Bay-Waveland area have spoken with feel the story was misleading.

The story did not state clearly how Congressman Taylor voted on the very important issue of giving the President support for using force to remove Iraq from Kuwait.

The fact is, Congressman Taylor voted, as all liberal Democrats did, against supporting the President in giving him congressional support.

Surely Congressman Taylor can vote the way he feels best, even if it is not representative of the wishes of the voters who elected him.

Thank you,

HOUSEKEEPING

From the Mississippi House of Representatives

State's economic shortfall takes precedent in House

Submitted by Representative J. P. Compretta

The state's financial plight commanded most of the attention of Mississippi lawmakers as the 1991 legislative session got underway amid mounting concern over budgetary matters.

The full extent of the budget crunch and its potential impact was outlined by fiscal experts in a series of meetings with legislators soon after the opening gavel was rapped on Tuesday, Jan. 8. The 90-day session is due to end April 7.

This is the final regular session of the current four-year term. There are indications it may be among the toughest sessions in years.

Dr. Edward L. Ranck, director of the University Research Center's division of Policy Research and Planning, confirmed the state is facing a projected shortfall of $105 million in general fund revenues for the current fiscal year.

The longtime financial specialist said the economy is "very weak" at this time and warned that the state is "walking into one of the most difficult budgetary periods I have ever seen."

The threat of war in the Middle East also cast a shadow over the first week of the session.

Brigadier General Denver Brackeen gave a special briefing to the House of Representatives on Mississippi National Guard Units called to active duty because of the Persian Gulf crisis.

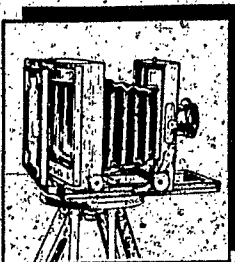

Significantly, the first place of legislation to win House approval in 1991 was a resolution commending Mississippi troops serving in Operation Desert Shield and wishing each of them "a speedy and safe return to their loved ones." The resolution was co-sponsored by the entire House membership.

In addition to the money dilemma, the Legislature will be wrestling with such important issues during the next three months as education, economic development, drug abuse, Medicaid, legislative reapportionment, the state's correctional system, and a compulsory auto insurance law.

Other issues range from worker's compensation to helping local governments deal with solid waste disposal problems, including strong emphasis on recycling.

House and Senate members have taken the lead in a recycling effort in state government aimed at reducing the flow of waste material to local landfills.

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce President Dick Kosbab has appointed Pat Harvill of Riemann Funeral Home; Robert Kane of John McDonald Realty; Dix Ashman of Mollere Realty; and David Treutel of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association to the chamber board of directors. The four appointees will serve one-year terms with 16 previously-elected directors.

In the final days of the 1980 Mississippi Legislative Session, a bill requiring monthly legal advertising for county supplies exceeding $1,500 was passed. Previously, advertising by the county was done on an annual basis for supplies in excess of $500. The results of the legislation makes acceptance of the January supply bids void, since Hancock County Board of Supervisors already submitted legal advertisement in December for the entire 1981 year.

Figures released from Washington to The Sea Coast Echo this week give Bay St. Louis (1940) census, 4,138 over 3,724 in 1930, an increase of 414. Waveland's 1940 figure is 768 compared to 663 in 1930. Hancock County's figures for 1940 are 11,328. In 1930, 11,415, a decrease of 87. This was due largely to the fact the county's timber during the preceding ten years was cut away and both sawmill and turpentine and other kindred industry as a result were abolished. This lack of industry since the timber is gone cut deeply into possibilities of an increased county population.

City Superintendent S.J. Ingram, City Commissioner Grady Perkins, accompanied by Contractor John Buehler, were in Jackson during the early part of the week in the interest of procuring additional aid for the construction of a third story on part of the Central School building, now nearing completion. The officials appeared before the WPA state department and were granted what they went after. The third story will be built over the south wing of the new building and will be used as a music hall, for instruction and as well for practice purpose.

Mr. Hewes also predicted that the succeeding years will also be big ones for the oystermen, believing that the beds after being closed a year will be self-sustaining. This year there have been 393 skiff licenses and sixty-eight schooner licenses issued, a smaller number than previously because of the large number of closed reefs.

thoughts. We confront our mortality through 400,000 U.S. soldiers in a distant part of the world, and there is a sadness upon the land.

Last week, a young man, recently enlisted in the Army's delayed entry program, told me of what he would do in combat. He elaborated on hypothetical tactical situations: "If I saw an Iraqi come across a sand dune, I'd just grab a S.A.W. (a type of machine gun) and blow him away."

I quietly excused myself and hoped that his delayed entry was further postponed before he was rudely disabused of such sanitary adolescent fantasies. Death, the great egalitarian, treats heroes and cowards equally.

On the eve of possible condict, Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis sponsored a candlelight prayer vigil for peace in the Middle East.

After an opening hymn, community leaders, including Waveland Mayor Stella Frilot, offered prayers with the assemblage. A passage in May or Frilot's prayer, "While our entreaties are for all people, our prayers especially go out to our loved ones," reflected the concerns of all of those present.

Most of those in the pews currently have a family member or friend serving in the Persian Gulf region. Later in the service, attendees were invited to say aloud the name of these people and almost everyone mentioned one or more names.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Farve, unable to attend due to a previous city business commitment, sent a representative with his own prayer. In part, it asked for "Patience, courage and knowledge."

The Reverend Dr. Arthur E. Johnson, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church offered in prayer the observation that, "We are all of your people... members of a worldwide family" and asked that those who wished to participate in the candlelight vigil remain after the service. Many elected to do so, to engage in continuous prayer until midnight, the official deadline when President Bush is authorized to initiate military action against Iraq to force its withdrawal from Kuwait.

In conversation with Pastor Johnson, after the service, he expressed a grave sadness at the prospect of hostilities. On the question of U.S. force being used to expel Iraq, the pastor said, "I think we ought to do it, but I wish we didn't have to."

Driving home, I realized with a start that I had never been inside a Muslim mosque and wondered how many Iraqis had ever seen the inside of a Christian church.

Did the scattered quiet tears I had just witnessed at Christ Episcopal Church have a corollary in Iraqi religious gatherings?

In a delayed reaction, the somber tone and sadness of the gathering I had just witnessed suddenly affected me strongly and I felt as though we as a nation were standing on the edge of an abyss.

May God be with us all.

have been placed in the legislative chambers and committee rooms for disposal of recyclable paper products, and blue nylon bags are on hand for old newspapers.

The move, in which all legislators are involved, is in line with the 1990 Waste Minimization Act requiring all state agencies and institutions to adopt recycling programs by January 1992.

Committees have begun work on the massive stack of bills awaiting consideration. More than 750 bills and resolutions were introduced in the House during the first three days, and the number continues to grow daily. The deadline for introduction of general bills and constitutional amendments is Monday, Jan. 21.

Governor Mabus is expected to present his legislative proposals to a joint session of the House and Senate on January 22.

The House Appropriations Committee, which has the difficult chore of recommending how much money to allocate for agencies and departments, reached agreement during the past week on some new procedures for handling budget requests in view of the state's severe money woes.

Under the four-phase plan, the committee agreed to adopt a general fund estimate of $1,987 billion as the total amount available from existing revenue sources for the coming fiscal year.

Secondly, it was agreed that any increase in individual budget requests over Legislative Budget Committee recommendations must be accompanied by an equal decrease in other areas.

And, the committee agreed all appropriation bills would be sent to the full House at the same time, along with a summary of the entire budget package.

Finally, the Appropriations Committee voted to develop a supplemental list of "critical needs" that would involve new revenues to be funded. The critical needs list will be presented to the Ways and Means Committee, charged with the responsibility of handling tax bills and other revenue measures.

Members of the committee were divided on the new procedures. Some legislators said the changes would help make sure that state spending is held within anticipated revenues and give the entire House a larger voice in the appropriations process.

Others expressed concern that the changes may be premature, especially if there's a chance a revenue package may be forthcoming in either House or Senate.

In other legislative developments, the House approved a bill to rename the Mississippi Museum in honor of longtime Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross, whose efforts led to the establishment and development of the museum.

The Education Committee met with State Superintendent Richard Thompson and other education leaders. The Public Utilities Committee received a briefing from Bill Wilkerson, director of the Public Utilities Staff, on efforts to improve utility rate-making procedures.

BAY COVE HARBOUR

PROGRESS REPORT #2
JANUARY 17, 1991

1. ACCESS ROAD

Stalled due to excessive rain and legal problems on one tract. Nothing serious and probably both will be ready together.

2. GOLF COURSE

Property walked by several specialist teams. Consensus favorable with area being confirmed as ideal site. Negotiations proceeding.

3. RESORT

a.) Still taking applications to our job registry (466-2558).
b.) Several concepts of overall development under advisement. Investigation into prospective joint venture principals continuing. Following final agreement construction should follow within two to three weeks.

4. GENERAL

Doing this thing is not that difficult. But doing it right takes care, caution, concentration and selectivity. As we allowed before the vote, we are setting out to build a "final destination, family oriented, resort area, having a casino as an added attraction. This was not changed, nor will it."

Lott supports President

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The following statement was issued by Senator Trent Lott during the Senate Persian Gulf debate last week:

Mr. President, since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the world has united to condemn, in judgement, the Iraqi Government. President Bush has sought every possible diplomatic or political solution.

The world and America now demand resolution of the chaos created by Saddam Hussein. Hussein seeks "just and dignified treatment."

That was what his Foreign Minister told Secretary of State Jim Baker just this week. Yet, he has consistently displayed a character void of human decency, dignity and justice.

The situation is clear now. In fact, to quote the former Assistant Secretary of Defense Richard Perle, "If America fails when the issues are so clear, the aggression so unambiguous, the values so fundamental, the international community so united, how will America fare in a far more common condition of confusion, divided opinion, ambiguity and moral uncertainty?"

The world is united - and I have to commend President Bush for the effort that he made through the United Nations and with personal diplomacy, personal contacts with leaders all over the world to bring the world together, unite against the aggression of one man, really, Saddam Hussein.

Now the world is watching, watching this body, to see what the United States Senate will do under these conditions at this time.

Hussein is watching. He is watching, and he is waiting to see if the Senate will support the request of our President.

Are we united? That is the question. Are we united as a people, as a government, in support of the President and with the President?

I have to say of the last vote, that was a very important vote; it was a difficult vote. I know that every Senator has given a lot of prayerful thought to it, debated it in his or her mind, and wanted to do the right thing. It was a close vote.

I, too, support the sanctions. I supported them from the very beginning. But they have been in place now for four to five months, and so I have to ask the question, are the sanctions enough? I think the answer is no.

Will they alone work? I think the answer is no. If they were really sanctions on Hussein, maybe they would, but they are sanctions on the people of Iraq.

I do not think he cares about the people. But sanctions should stay in place. They will stay in place. The President is not going to lift them. We are not going to ask that he lift them. We want them to stay in place. But what is at stake now with this vote is unity or chaos.

Again, Hussein is watching. Will the Senate authorize the use of all necessary actions, including force, to bring this matter to a conclusion? I trust it will, that the Senate will not tie the hands of the President.

This vote is the last rose of peace. We have tried everything else as a nation and as a government through our President. I'm reminded of a quote from the Roman poet Horace which is a fitting commentary on the vote we face today. I use an aberration of that passage in which he said, let us continue our effort to find where the last rose lingers. This is where the last rose of peace lingers.

This is a vote that does not say "Let us go to war now." This is a vote that says we are united, we are together with our President and with the world against this aggression. If we speak together with one voice in unity, that is our last best hope for the rose of peace.

What is the alternative now? What if the Senate votes down this very important resolution? We then after three days of debate day and night will have voted down a resolution on the sanctions and voted down a resolution that would authorize all necessary actions to bring this to a peaceful conclusion.

How will that look? What kind of chaos will that create? What will we do? We would probably continue the sanctions, or would we? Would we begin to withdraw troops, because without the option of the serious threat of force, or in fact, force, we would not need that many troops in the Persian Gulf region?

And should we begin to withdraw them, what would Hussein do? He dances in the streets of Baghdad tonight because the Senate would have created total chaos and uncertainty about what is happening.

My colleagues, vote for this resolution, vote for unity, do not allow chaos to set in. Now is the time to stand up and be counted.

COLD FUSION

It was the discovery of the century. Or was it?

"NOVA" follows the mad chase to verify cold fusion on "Confusion in a Jar," airing on a special day, Thursday, Jan. 17 at 9 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Scientists scrambled to confirm startling results announced in 1989 by two electrochemists at the University of Utah who claimed to have produced the reaction that fuels the stars—fusion. If correct, their discovery of "cold fusion" could mean unlimited, cheap, pollution-free energy.

Independent verification of the scientists' claims is impossible due to the lack of a formal paper describing exactly how they achieved their results. Labs traded information by phone, fax and electronic mail in perhaps the greatest spontaneous scientific research effort ever undertaken.

Paske is associated with Lutheran Brotherhood's Stephen Bolt Agency headquartered in Goodlettsville. He joined the society in 1984.

Penrose runs for re-election

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District trustee Linda Penrose has qualified to run for re-election as her first five-year term expires this year.

Penrose said Monday that she does not expect to run unopposed.

"I'm sure there'll be somebody else running. There's always somebody else who will run."

No one else has qualified thus far. The deadline for candidates to qualify is Friday at 4 p.m.

Penrose is one of two elected trustees on the five-member board. Superintendent Robert Magee said these two serve the added territory of the Bay St. Louis corporate limits, which includes Waveland and some areas along Hwy. 603.

The board's other three trustees are appointed and serve the area in the Bay St. Louis city limits.

One of the two elected posts was filled last summer by Waveland pharmacist James Wilcox.

Trustees appointed by the mayor of Bay St. Louis, and approved by the city council, are Charles (Chuck) Benvenuti, Gary Yarborough and William Bradley.

Kiln resident hears from grandson in Saudi Arabia

Editor's note: The following letter was mailed to Kiln resident Louisa Brew from her grandson, Tyler Bergemann. It was dated Dec. 27. Hello Grandma, I'm still in Saudi Arabia playing war. Well, actually they're calling it an exercise until something happens, then maybe they will call it a war.

Right now all we really need is the word to take Saddam out. I believe President Bush would like to give us the word, but he has to deal with Congress. All Congress cares about really is, if they let us fight, how it would affect their reelection.

I am doing fine. Right now we are working 12-hour shifts, so the 12 hours we have off are mainly for sleeping. Saturday is my day off, so hopefully I can catch up on some sleep, and if they are running a trip, I will go downtown. I have been trying to get downtown for about a month, but they are never having trips on my day off.

Today is Thursday, and I'm writing you at 10 a.m. Also today, I'm riding with a Saudi patrol. We don't understand each other too well, but we get by. My job here is mainly to safeguard aircraft so they can bring in supplies, also protect aircraft like the F-15 fighters so they defend and attack Iraq if needed.

If you were to look at a map to see where I am, it would be near Dhahran. Women here are treated as second class citizens.

They can't drive cars and aren't allowed out of the house without an escort.

Oh well, Grandma, I can't think of anything else to write, and as you have probably heard, if you talk to my sister, I'm not much of a letter writer, but I try. Goodbye for now.

Love,
Tyler

Hancock homemakers aid state literacy effort

Members of the Hancock County Extension Homemaker Clubs have joined the effort to address the global concern of literacy.

Beginning with Mr. and Mrs. Keith Armstead's baby Chastity Rachel, who arrived at 3:58 on January 1, at Hancock Medical Center, each baby born in Hancock County in 1991 will receive a first baby book from the Mississippi Extension Homemaker Club Council.

The objective of the project—"A Book for Every Baby"—is to provide every parent of a baby born in Mississippi in 1991 with a gift book for the baby, materials on the educational and emotional value of lap reading, information on adult literacy programs and an invitation to join a homemaker club.

Mississippi Extension Homemaker Council President Peggy Kennedy said the main objective is to strengthen family life.

"In the 'Book for Every Baby' project, we have bonding between parent and child, early introduction to books and learning, and improved literacy for parents all rolled up in one project," Kennedy said.

The Extension Homemaker council in each county has named a project chairman to form area committees to assemble the packets and make contacts with the local hospitals.

Margie Welsh is coordinating the distribution of these packets in Hancock County at Hancock Medical Center.

Dr. Carol Short, leadership development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the project is aimed at benefitting three groups: children, literate adults and illiterate adults.

"Literacy specialists believe that reading to children at early ages encourages them to continue reading as they get older," Short said.

"We know this book will be given to parents who can't read. Information on adult literacy programs is included with the book to encourage adults to seek help at local literacy centers," she said.

"We are also hoping that adults who can read will see the importance of literacy centers and eventually serve as volunteers to teach reading to other adults."

Packets include the book of Mother Goose nursery rhymes with colorful illustrations, and bookmarks from the Mississippi Library Commission and the Reading for Adults Program which includes the literacy hotline number.

The Extension Service provided pamphlets on the importance of lap reading and information on joining a local homemaker club.

Homemaker clubs meet on a regular basis to improve personal and community relationships through educational programming.

Topics include issues such as managing money, time and skills; studying family care needs; providing nutritious, safe and attractive meals; planning, making and caring for clothes; and caring for the environment such as waste management.

For more information on the project or other Extension Homemaker Club projects, contact Darlene Underwood, Hancock County home economist at 467-5456.

Rocks fall to Long Beach; face Bay High Thursday

The St. Stanislaus ninth grade basketball team fell to the Long Beach Bearcats 47-56 January 14 at home.

Leading scorer for the Rocks was Andy Rethmeyer, 14 points, followed by Imari Esters with 12 points and Vince Moran with 10 points.

"Some of our key players got in foul trouble early in the game," said Coach Andy Kivlan.

"We had our hands tied at that point. With key players on the bench instead of on the floor, we lacked the chemistry to put the Bearcats away."

"The substitutes did an excellent job of keeping us in the game, but we just didn't convert when we needed to," he continued.

During the fourth quarter, the team was able to hit some key free throws, although the effort was not enough to catch up.

Hometown rival Bay High School will be the opponent for St. Stanislaus eighth graders at 5 p.m. on Thursday at the Tigerdome. A match-up of the ninth grade teams will follow at 6 p.m.

Raiders climb to 17-6

The Coast Episcopal Raiders claimed victory number 17 of the season with a 74-51 win over Bogalusa Ben's Ford Monday night in Bogalusa.

Sparked by 20 first half points from senior Bruce Hull, the Raiders opened up a 39-24 lead and increased that lead to 59-30 after three quarters.

The fourth period allowed the Raiders to clear the bench and coast to the easy victory.

Hull led all scorers with 32 points, followed by sophomore A. J. Ashe, who scored 22 points playing in his first game for the Raiders since transferring from St. John High School.

Ashe is going to give us some help on the boards and allow us to be better in our half court offense," said Raider Coach Jack Hutchinson. At 6'4", he's going to make people play him on the block, which is going to give our other players less pressure out front.

Other scorers for the Raiders were sophomore Dave Hagan with six points, followed by freshman Tyrone Jones, and juniors Chris Painter and Adam Farragut each with four.

Sophomore Nathan Guice and senior Paul Bernadas each tossed in two points.

Coast Episcopal's overall record is 17-6 for the season.

St. Stanislaus varsity team wins two games, loses one

BY TRACI BONNEY

The St. Stanislaus varsity Rock-A-Chaws won two of their last three home basketball games, losing to Denham Springs and defeating Ocean Springs and D'Iberville.

In their January 9 game against the Ocean Springs Greyhounds, SSC clinched a win with a 68-48 score.

Leading the scoring for SSC was Galen Smith with 17 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots. Other double-digit scorers were Brandon Smith with 15 points and eight rebounds, and Erik York with 14 points and nine rebounds.

Steve Schuff with five steals and Ken Booker with four assists were other key players.

SSC Coach Chuck Genin said, "Our rebounding was tremendous. We were allowing Ocean Springs only one shot every trip down. Our defense allowed only seven points in the final period."

Genin cited the second and fourth periods as key times. "We turned up the defense and rebounding, and outscored them heavily in those quarters."

"We played great team basketball. Our execution was outstanding on offense and defense. Our big men — Galen, Grady, Brandon and Erik — did a super job on the boards."

SSC stood at 7-9 overall and 1-2, or third, in the district, after its face-off with Ocean Springs.

The team's next opponent, Denham Springs, proved to be a tough challenge for the Rocks.

After SSC's 55-40 defeat January 11, the home team's record stood at 7-10 for the season.

No SSC player scored in double digits. Booker led the scoring with nine points, while York and Brandon Smith each scored eight. Galen Smith led the rebounds with 11.

Genin commented, "They (Denham) played great pressure man-to-man, which took us out of our offense."

He added that with two key district games facing the Rock-A-Chaws, the team's primary objective was to pull together.

SSC was back in their stride January 14, soundly defeating the D'Iberville Warriors 74-59.

The win brought the team to 8-10 for the season, 2-2 and second place in the district.

The Galen Smith/Booker/York trio were again top scorers, with Trent Terrell rounding out the double-digit leaders. Smith scored 18 points; Terrell, 14; Booker, 13; and York, 10. Genin said, "We rebounded well in the first quarter to jump out to a 12-point lead."

"The first quarter really set the tone of the game for us offensively and defensively. We played well as a team. Rebounding and the fast break really worked well in the win."

The Rocks next host the Long Beach Bearcats Friday, Jan. 18.

Genin said, "We still have to play smart and mistake-free to beat Long Beach. They are playing well and I feel we are, too. It should be an exciting contest."

The same night, before the Long Beach/SSC game, there will be an alumni basketball game. Anyone interested in participating should call Chuck Genin at 467-9781 or Jerry Spell at 467-9057 for details.

The Hummingbirds held on for a 1-0 victory.

Monti Electric Hammers met the Alcan Cable Company Pelicans in the third game of the day, which was an exciting match.

The Hammers scored three goals, with Zachary Cooper, Lisa Halferty and Brennan

Fledgling Lady Raiders stand at 1-2 for season

With less than three weeks of practice under their belts, Coast Episcopal's Lady Raiders played Ben's Ford Christian School last week to kick off their season under new coach Kristin Townson.

After staying "neck and neck" most of the first half, the Raiders fell behind just minutes before the halftime buzzer.

The Ben's Ford Lady Eagles came out firing in the second half and continued building momentum, winning 44-24.

For the Lady Raiders, sophomore and oldest player, Megan Uram, pumped in 14 points. Freshman Miriam Salloum followed, tossing in five, with freshman Brooke Shoults and eighth grader Amy Dedeaux adding three and two points, respectively. Other Lady Raiders playing included freshmen Penny Jamison and Whitney Eastman, and eighth grader Marcie Williams.

Scoring for the Lady Raiders was evenly spread with three players in double digits: C. Schilling, 12; S. Martin, 10; B.

Byrd, 10. Eagle freshman H. Odom, who is six feet tall, pulled down many of the rebounds and added four points.

Later that week, the Lady Raiders faced Tabernacle Christian, a team with four 5'11" players.

Down by 18 points at the half, the Lady Raiders came back with an effective trapping press and tight defense. They scored 16 points, compared to Tabernacle's 10 points in the second half.

An excellent second half was not enough to compensate for the first half's deficit, and the Lady Raiders lost 38-26.

Megan Uram dominated scoring with 17 points, followed by Marcie Williams, 4; Miriam Salloum, 3, and Pennie Jamison, 2.

Only an hour later, the Lady Raiders were back on the court for their second tournament game against Calvary Christian.

Exhausted from the first game, the team had a hard time getting their offensive and defensive strategies going.

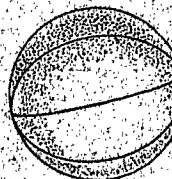

After a slow first half, the Lady Raiders were behind 19-13. They rallied in the second half with an aggressive defense, stealing the ball 10 times and keeping Calvary scoreless in the third quarter.

Jamison is credited with 6 steals, while freshmen Whitney Eastman and Miriam Salloum pulled down 12 defensive rebounds between them.

Megan Uram, Salloum and Brooke Shoults combined for 22 second half points for a 34-28 win over Calvary.

Individual point tallies were Uram, 16; Salloum, 9; Shoults, 6; Jamison, 2, and Williams, 1.

The Lady Raiders will play at home on January 22.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Like just about everyone else these days, my thoughts return again and again to our service men and women far away in the desert sands of Saudi Arabia, and especially just now that the United Nations deadline has passed, and we are awaiting whatever comes next.

It's rather like being in the eye of a hurricane—remember? Isn't it?

My prayers and thoughts are with those overseas, and with all the others in service, still in our country but subject to being sent overseas, such as our own Navy man, No. 3 grandson Shannon, now immersed in his studies and training in San Diego as I write this. No. 1 grandson Bill and No. 2 grandson Brian, finishing their college studies, are already registered, and No. 4 grandson Barrett turns 18 later this month—so you may be sure that this grandmother, along with many, many others, is deeply concerned!

And, you may also be sure, knowing me, that I get busy at such times, scribbling, cooking, even cleaning out kitchen shelves and cabinets and dresser drawers, chores which I'd put off till eternity, otherwise!

I've also been answering countless pleas for cookie recipes of various sorts, for sending to family members stationed overseas, or for "just any service men or women to cheer them up." A number of callers said that they had made up batches of cookies from the Pecan Confections recipe which I gave in this column shortly before Christmas. You might want to try that one, as it is delicious, if I do say so myself!

You can't send any chocolate cookies, as they won't stand up to the heat of the desert; and that rules out most of my favorite cookie recipes, unfortunately.

But there are many other delicious cookies you can send, to give a taste of home to our service men and women so far away from home. For instance, I made, or so it seemed at the time, mountains of that old-time delight, sand tarts, at Christmastime for gifts to friends. They were quite well received; in fact, these same friends want to know when I'll be making more! Here's:

SAND TARTS

1 cup butter or margarine
4 Tbsp. powdered sugar
2 cups flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. vanilla
1 cup finely chopped pecans
Cream the butter and sugar together. Sift the baking powder and salt, and gradually add the flour mixture to the creamed butter-sugar mixture. Add the vanilla and pecans. Drop in 1-inch balls on a greased cookie sheet, then mash slightly flat. Bake in a 375-degree oven until brown. Roll in additional powdered sugar. (Five dozen cookies)

Mississippi Right to Life

On Jan. 19, Mississippi Right to Life will sponsor a rally on the south steps of the Capitol in Jackson. Theme of the rally is "Abortion Stops a Beating Heart."

According to CNN, last year's rally drew some 1,000 people on a cold rainy day. This year an even larger crowd is expected to stand and speak for those who cannot speak for themselves.

Speakers at the rally will include Bobby Clanton, Jackson; Jett Wilson, Corinth; Rebecca Heath, Mississippi Teens for Life president, McComb; and Dr. Betty Turner, Kosciusko, a pediatrician who spoke at last year's rally.

Music will be provided by the Youth Choir of First Baptist Church of Kosciusko and Brenda Sutherland from Memphis.

The rally will begin with a silent memorial procession from Smith Park, which will begin at 11:45 a.m. The rally will be from noon to 1:30 p.m.

A feature of the rally will be the presentation of a petition to key pro-life members of the Mississippi State Legislature.

Sandy Ellard, rally chairman and vice-president of Mississippi Right to Life said, "All pro-lifers in Mississippi need to come to this rally and bring others with them. We must show our officials that the people of Mississippi stand up for the rights of unborn babies."

Living wills available through Mississippi Health Department

In June, the United States Supreme Court issued a ruling restricting the right to remove life-support systems from a patient being kept alive by the systems alone.

In response to that decision, hundreds of Mississippians have requested information from the Mississippi State Department of Health about filing a declaration to withdraw life-sustaining mechanisms or living will.

Living wills applications are available through MSDH at no cost, but they carry a filing fee of $10.

Forms may be requested through the MSDH Division of Public Health Statistics, P.O. Box 1700, Jackson, MS 39215-1700.

Bob Collins, branch director of Vital Records Certification, offers these tips to help in filing the document:

—Fill out the declaration completely. Do not add to the declaration other conditions such as "no tube feeding." If those statements are added, the declaration will be voided and returned.

—Make sure no relatives sign the will as witnesses. Division staff do check the names. Also make sure the witnesses see you sign the will.

—Do not file a durable power of attorney with the living will. The durable power of attorney should be filed with the chancery clerk and your health care provider.

—Remember to fill out the return address label on the inside and return the entire six-page form when filing. You will get a copy of the declaration and the revocation form as proof of filing.

Hospitals and/or physicians require a certified copy of the living will before carrying out the intent.

Since the Division of Public Health Statistics must also certify no revocation is on file, copies of the certificate will be provided only if medically warranted.

The living will filed in Mississippi is valid here but may not be valid in other states, depending on their laws and regulations.

To void the living will, an individual can simply fill out the revocation completely, get it witnessed in the same way as the will, and return it to MSDH Public Health Statistics.

Division staff will return the original application as proof of filing, and will keep the revocation itself on file.

Over 9,500 Mississippians currently have living wills on file with MSDH.

The program brings a select group of high school sophomores with leadership qualities together with a group of distinguished leaders in business, science, education, government and the professions, and let the two interact.

Annual leadership seminars at the state and international levels take the form of intense but informal discussions aimed at giving the young student a straight forward view of what the world is all about.

At Pass Christian High School, Nikita is an honor roll student. She is a member of the Science Club, French Club and Student Council. She also was selected as a sophomore maid for the football homecoming court.

Other nominees were William E. Bradley of B&W Services at Stennis Space Center and Norbert Redmond, director of public works for the city of Bay St. Louis.

Professions (other): Sister Dulcinea Mraz of the Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters has been with the St. Rose de Lima Parish for more than 20 years. She has helped many get a high school diploma through the GED program.

She is on the Alternative School District Committee, the Altar Society and serves as a eucharistic minister and in many other capacities.

Other nominees were Elaine P. Barnes, choral music director, Bay Senior High School; Nathaniel Fairconnetue, athletic director, Picayune High School; Carolyn Hamilton, band director, Bay Senior High; Myron B. Labat, head tennis coach, St. Stanislaus High School; and Clementine Williams, principal, Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton.

Voluntarism: Robert "Chops" Williams is director of the Bay Youth Basketball Association, which serves over 175 youngsters from 7 to 12 years old.

Last year, he initiated a tri-county basketball tournament as a fundraiser that produced enough money to buy additional uniforms, to hold a sports banquet, to give awards to every program participant and to start this year's program.

Williams is employed with Pan American at the Stennis Space Center.

Other nominees were Charles Hawkins, an employee of the Williams Wrecking and Construction Co., who is a pastor, bodybuilder and member of the Bay-Waveland Head Start School Board and

Marilyn E. Smith, a volunteer with St. Rose de Lima Parish, where she has directed the Little People's Choir for nearly 20 years.

Art: Joida Evans, an art instructor at Bay Senior High School, has designed and assembled the mosaic that will hang in the new high school auditorium. Evans was the lone nominee.

Media: Edgar Perez, journalist, wrote for The Sea Coast Echo and The Sun Herald. Besides his work as a reporter, Perez has devoted countless hours visiting the sick and the imprisoned and working with agencies that provide medical, social and psychological services to those in need.

Other nominees were Ellis C. Cuevas, editor-publisher of The Sea Coast Echo, and John Ross, WBSL radio personality.

Religion: The Rev. Kenneth L. Hamilton of St. Rose de Lima Parish, who literally has transformed the parish since arriving on the Coast in August 1989.

Besides many physical improvements at St. Rose, Hamilton has attracted many people back to the church and has brought together ministers of all denominations to address some community concerns.

Other nominees were the Rev. Bobby E. Dailey, pastor of Valena C. Jones United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis; the Rev. William Harper, pastor of First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis, and the Rev. Jeffrey Reed, pastor of the Powerhouse of Deliverance in Bay St. Louis.

Humanitarian: Also presented was the Ethel Weaver Humanitarian Award, given to the person or group who serves the community through courage, integrity, humility and personal charm, thus exemplifying the virtues espoused by the late Mrs. Weaver, who was a longtime member of the NAACP.

The St. Rose Inspirational Choir, under the direction of Alfriza Acker, won this award.

Other nominees were Mamie "Deal" Drummond, retired from the Bay Waveland Head Start program; Glendell Hall, who has been with Head Start for about 20 years; Mary S. Smith, with Head Start for more than 23 years; and Mattie Sams, a senior member of the community who is known as the mother of First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis.

WBSL radio personality Dominic Mitchum served as program emcee, with Shamela Willis handing out many of the awards.

Calvin Smith, president of the Hancock County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also handled some of the award presentations.

Other officers of the Hancock County Branch NAACP, who along with Smith, were honored for their work on the awards program were Shakira Shabazz, secretary; Willie C. Acker, vice president, and Hertha Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Holder, Laurent participate in Duke talent ID program

Andy Kivlan, guidance counselor at St. Stanislaus, announced seventh grade students Matt Holder and Leo Laurent have participated in TIP, a program sponsored by Duke University and based on standardized test scores. TIP, which stands for Talent Identification Program, is conducted annually in the southern and midwestern states, and it has been in existence since 1980. The purpose of the program is to identify academically superior students.

One of the goals of the program is to assist participants by providing them with information about their ability and educational options.

Accordingly, TIP distributes a variety of informational materials to participants, and discusses the meaning and preparation for the ACT and SAT testing programs.

To be eligible a student must have scored at or above the 97th percentile on a specified standardized test. More than 270,000 students have participated in the program since its inception.

Holder and Laurent will now take either the Scholastic Aptitude Test or the ACT Assessment normally taken by college-bound juniors and seniors.

Holder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Holder of Long Beach, and Laurent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Laurent of Bay St. Louis.

Leo Laurent, Matt Holder

MILITARY MENTIONS

SEAMAN RILEY

Navy Seaman Apprentice Christopher D. Riley, a 1986 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, was graduated from Basic Quartermaster School.

During the five-week course at Service School Command, Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla., Riley received instructions on procedures for assisting navigators with the maintaining and correcting of ships' courses at sea.

In addition, Riley studied the techniques for steering ships, and how to read compasses, depth finders, radio directions finders and long range aids to navigation (LORAN) receivers. He joined the Navy in September, 1990.

SEAMAN CLARK

Navy Seaman Recruit Damon L. Clark, son of Patsy M. Clark of Pass Christian, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During Clark's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

His studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1990 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

Cross earns captain's license

After passing a written Coast Guard examination, Patsy Cross received a 100-ton Master's license, along with a 200-ton Master's license.

Cross, who lives in Pearlinton, took pre-examination at the Houston Marine Training Center in New Orleans, La.

Human Services taking foster parent applications

The Hancock County Department of Human Services is currently taking applications for prospective foster parents.

Foster parenting enables a child to receive love and guidance during a difficult period in his/her life. Additional foster homes are needed in Hancock County to prevent neglected and/or abused children from being placed in a shelter.

A Department of Human Services spokesperson said Hancock County children should remain in Hancock County, but in order to achieve this, greater community involvement is needed.

To demonstrate his concern for this matter, Sen. Vic Franciewicz has become the county's advocate for foster care.

The next training session for foster parents begins this month. For more information about foster care, contact Kay Altse at 467-4100 or 467-4565.
